writers' weekend

As a Virginia landmark with such a close relationship with our state's history and traditions, we are proud to host our inaugural Writers' Weekend. We've invited multiple Virginia authors to share their expertise and experience.

Join us for this weekend of lectures, live demos, book signings and fine dining at America's first resort.

highland maple festival

Minutes from the front steps of The Omni Homestead lies our neighboring county of Highland, best known as Virginia's "Little Switzerland." Highland County represents one of the last unspoiled rural communities in the Alleghenies. When spring temperatures arrive in mid-March, residents celebrate the "opening of the trees" at the Highland County Maple Festival, dedicated to the maple syrup farming process. For two weekends local farmers open their homes to visitors as "sugar camps" where they reveal the processes of tree tapping, sap collection and syrup making.

For more information on visiting the Highland Maple Festival visit our Concierge for a brochure or visit www.highlandcounty.org

about the authors

Lynn Seldon got his start as a writer while stationed in Germany as a young Army officer looking for some excitement and a creative outlet. During his weekend jaunts throughout Europe, he decided to start writing about his travel experiences. In addition to his first novel, Virginia's Ring, Lynn has written several travel books as well as for outlets such as Southern Living, TrailBlazer, Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Charleston Post & Courier and many more.

Writer's Session: How Virginia's Ring Rang Up Sales

Lynn Seldon's endorsement from Pat Conroy, creative crowdfunding, and self-publishing with CreateSpace proved to be a great combination for his first novel.

Mollie Cox Bryan writes the Cumberland Creek Scrapbooking Mysteries. Scrapbook of Secrets, the first in the series, was nominated for an Agatha Award for Best First Novel of 2012 and was selected by B & N as a mystery to watch. The rest of the books in the series are: Scrapped, Death of an Irish Diva, Scrappy Summer and Crafty Christmas. She is also the author of Mrs. Rowe's Restaurant Cookbook.
